

KINGSTON

CAPTURING LIFE AND ENTERTAINMENT

The Kingston Learning Centre was founded 28 years ago with a mission to assist individuals seeking career-focused training in high demand employment areas. Stephen Bartolini, recently became the new director of the four-campus (Smiths Falls, Kingston, Richmond Hill, and Whitby) private career college. For over 24 years, as the President of the International Academy of Merchandising and Design, he had been assisting students in their venture toward finding gratifying employment. After a brief retirement, he decided that he missed the school environment and turned his sights on acquiring the well-established Kingston Learning Centre. As he explained, "There's a certain reward when you see someone complete that program and get that job." The director is committed to offering programs that fill an identified need in the region. He states simply, "I think we have a moral obligation to the students to train them in an area that when they finish they will be hired." For more information log on to www.kingstonlearningcentre.ca

Event by Calvin White     Stephen Bartolini with one of the students at KLC

